Dear Senator Metcalf:

The quotation cited in the letter to the editor which you mentioned in your letter of 25 January does not appear in any of Khrushchev's speeches, interviews, articles, or off-the-cuff remarks which have come to our attention. To the best of our knowledge, we believe the quotation to be spurious.

The alleged remark does bear a superficial resemblance to a statement made by Khrushchev in May 1960 to a Moscow labor conference when he said, "We believe that sooner or later the people will have a leadership in the United States who will carry out the only realistic policy of our times, the policy of peace and peaceful coexistence. How soon this will come does not depend on us, and we will not try to guess. But we believe in human common sense, and therefore we say it will happen. Can we be patient and wait until then? Yes, we can. That is why we watch with cool detachment the noise and feverish activity now being raised by the American reactionary circles."

We are grateful to you for having called this matter to our attention, and we shall be glad to be of any further assistance if you desire.

The Honorable Lee Metcalf
United States Senate
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Senator Metcalf:

The quotation attributed to Khrushchev does not appear in any of his recorded speeches, interviews, articles or "off-the-cuff" remarks. We believe the quotation to be spurious and think it unlikely that Khrushchev would make such a remark. To admit that American leaders can give the people small doses of socialism is incompatible with the basic Kremlin line that socialism can be achieved only after the overthrow--peaceful or otherwise--of the "capitalist ruling class" and the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship led by a Marxist elite. It would seem impolitic in the extreme for Khrushchev to suggest that socialism could occur under a leadership which he himself characterizes as irrevocably committed to the exploitation of the "working class" in the United States.

The quotation does, however, bear a superficial similarity to a statement Khrushchev made some three and a half months prior to his September 1960 visit to the UN General Assembly in New York. Taken out of context, the remarks he made at a Moscow labor conference in May 1960 could provide the basis for fabricating a quotation like the one in question. He said, "We believe that sooner or later the people will have a leadership in the United States who will carry out the only realistic policy of our times, the policy of peace and peaceful coexistence. How soon this will come does not depend on us, and we will not try to guess. But we believe in human common sense, and therefore we say it will happen. Can we be patient and wait until then? Yes, we can. That is why we watch with cool detachment the noise and feverish activity now being raised by the American reactionary circles."

I hope the above information will be helpful. From our viewpoint it would be appreciated if you did not attribute the views expressed above to the Agency. Please let us know if we can be of any further assistance.

Sincerely,

John A. McCone

Dear Mr. McCone:

Enclosed is a letter to the editor containing a quotation, attributed to Mr. Khrushchev, which is being widely circulated in Montana. It is said that Mr. Khrushchev made this statement about three and a half months before his September, 1959 visit to the United States.

Perhaps this quotation was reprinted in the Daily Digest issued by your Agency. I would appreciate your agency's assistance in establishing whether this quote is authentic or spurious.

Very truly yours,

Dear Senator Tower,

The purpose of this letter is to put forward the name of Major General Robert A. Breitweiser to be considered for the post of Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. This is done without the knowledge of General Breitweiser.

Having observed General Breitweiser for almost two years, at very close range; and while he was the Director for Intelligence for the Joint Staff, I wish to say the following. General Breitweiser impressed me greatly as the most capable military man I have observed in my own 17 years service. He is brilliant, and undoubtedly one of the masters - chief seers - if you please, in the intelligence field today. Importantly, he maintained complete objectivity in thought and deed during the period of my association with him, and presently, as Director of Intelligence for the U.S. Air Force - it is my understanding that he is just as zealous for Air Force programs as he was impartial in the Joint Staff.

A word on my own motivation in writing this letter - I have no obligations or present or anticipated connections with General Breitweiser.

Please pass to Senators Russell and/or Symington, if you deem it appropriate to do so. Obviously, I would prefer this to be considered by you as a privileged communication.

Sincerely,
